Dear ,

Please consider the attached manuscript entitled “”. This manuscript is not under review, in press, or published elsewhere in any form and there are no conflict of interests to report. In this study, I rely on data collected from TESS... I examine...

I find that

The current study responds to a recent call for work which integrates ideas from behavioral economics into criminology to better understand offender decision-making (Pogarsky, Roche & Pickett, 2018).

I believe this manuscript fits well with the aims of Criminology.

Criminology has published some of the recent and influential work in this area — Pickett, Roche & Pogarsky (2018) Pogarsky, Roche & Pickett (2017) and more recently, work that has shown the importance of emotions in offender decision-making (Barnum & Solomon, 2019).

I appreciate your consideration of this manuscript. The manuscript is BLANK pages in length and BLANK words. It is formatted to match the Criminology submission guidelines.

Kind regards,

Rebecca Bucci
